

Centre for Environmental Law

Introduction to the Centre

The University aims to make rapid progress towards its dream of achieving excellence in the field of legal education and establishing Centre for Environment Law is just one step in that direction.

The Centre aspires to become one of the pioneers in the field of enviro-legal research in India by discussing issues of contemporary relevance with and among the academicians, scholars, advocates, students and other stakeholders interested in this area. The Centre would also promote environmental education, awareness and advocacy by becoming an epicentre of knowledge dissemination in the field of environmental law.

Objectives of the Centre

- To spread environmental education that is not restricted to the boundaries of the University;
- To analyse governmental policies, legal interventions and judicial decisions in the field of environmental law;
- To conduct specialized and inter-disciplinary research and publish valuable articles and research papers that will enrich the existing knowledge in this field;
- To spread awareness and sensitize the masses about environment issues;
- To organize various events and conduct programmes that will help the Centre to meet its objectives;
- To collaborate with other Environmental Law Centres, research institutions like NEERI and other governmental and non-governmental organizations across India.

Centre Coordinator/In-charge

Prof. Trishla Dubey